

Jean Schindler

Glendale Community College (CA); Transferred: UCLA;
London School of Economics (MA)
Work: Public Affairs Professional / Co-founder, ELN

Why community college?

“I came from a non-traditional high school, so community college was a chance for me to develop a ‘normal’ academic record. That, plus my parents were horrified by the idea of massive student debt.”

Why ELN?

“We want to promote a positive image for community colleges. As we’ve built ELN, we’ve discovered countless successful professionals who took classes at a community college at some point in their academic careers. We are assembling a mentorship and career development resource group made up of these alumni and other professionals that current students can utilize as they form the foundation for their futures.”

Advice to current students?

“Identify people with interesting careers, and find out how they got there. ”

Great Careers Start at Community College

www.ELNonline.org

